

Batch Exports and Stock Liquidations

How to import batches of merchandise

You probably have a recently started company and you want, not only to achieve its expansion and growth through a wide range of high quality assorted items and products , but also to become a wholesale distributor.

If that is your idea, we recommend that you seriously think about importing merchandise from the European Community market or closer to your country , that it is of quality, but also very profitable for you.

In LoteStock we will provide you with the necessary advice and the best tips for you to develop your import process in the best possible way and obtain the necessary information on how to get those lots of import stock with cheap, quality products and through a simple and expedited process .

The 7 best tips to buy lots of quality stock at a good price

Experience provider . The first thing you have to make sure is the experience that the batch exporting company has in the market that interests you or wants you to provide it. In this sense, we advise you to have at least 15 years of experience in the field of buying and selling export and import lots to be sure that you will have a good supplier in the future that also fully knows your work.

Origin of the lots to import . This is another aspect that you must take into account when obtaining or importing your stock lots or stock settlements . To do this you must ensure that your supplier has obtained them from liquidations, auctions, embargoes, production surpluses , etc. Why? Because the lots of liquidations are of great quality and at very low prices precisely because of their origin.

Condition of the receptionist or in charge of serving you. Make sure that at least it is bilingual, so that your communication with that person does not suffer any kind of obstacle and is as fluid as possible and you can express your concerns in the best way and also get an effective response to your requirements.

Required documentation It is important that you know, both you and your supplier, what is the documentation required for the procedures related to external operations of the entire export process.

Partner. If your company is based in a country far away or very distant from that of your exporter, we recommend that you get a partner so that, together, they assume the cost of importing from another continent , so they will save on logistics, personnel and transportation.

Logistics and Transportation. In importing it is essential that you know how international logistics and transport are developed . There are basically three ways by which you can send your stock lots and liquidation purchases that are: by road, by ship and / or by plane . If you are going to import perishable merchandise, the transport you must choose is certainly the plane.

In Europe, the train and road trailer is a good option to safely and quickly receive large volumes of merchandise . Generally it is necessary or required for its fulfillment to do it in two ways by train and by road.

However, road transport by truck Trailer is the most used and ideal for destinations between countries of the European community but for small and medium batch volumes .

Finally, when it comes to huge volumes of merchandise that is destined for remote sites or countries, the cheapest and ideal option is maritime transport . On ships the cargo goes in containers and a freight payment per container is required .

Generally, between the exporter and the importer they choose the site and the way in which the merchandise will be delivered.

Website and digital store. This is essential that you take into account when choosing not only your supplier of lots of stock and settlements to import , but the merchandise that you want to buy or may interest you . Why do we tell you? Because on the website of the company of your interest you can find not only a review of the company that interests you or that you want to be your supplier but more importantly, the full range of products that it offers you .

The origin of the merchandise, the brand of the products, their characteristics, the prices, the state, etc. , is information that is vital for you and that you can find on the website of your future supplier so that you make the best purchase and at the best price , and start a great relationship with your provider, so make sure they have a website where they give you all this information.
